Short Writing Assignment: Revising a Writing Assignment

Due Date: Monday, November 25, 2013

This assignment asks you to revise and enhance one of your first four short writing assignments. As you are modifying one of your first assignments, you must take into account the comments that you received from the instructor and any feedback that you may have derived from your previously assigned writing teams. When you are working on this assignment, please review the following readings from Diana Hacker's "A Writer's Reference": Pages 10-11 (Section C1-c), 14-18 (Section C2-a), 81 (Section A2-d), and 373 - 376 (Section MLA-1). Moreover, please read the following new Hacker reading assignments on pages 20-31 (Section C3), 32-44 (Section C4), and 45 - 62 (Section C5). Finally, you should review the content from Lyn Dupre's "BUGS in Writing": chapters 1, 15, and 23, and any additional chapter assigned for you to read during the semester.

You must use a modern word processor to prepare your paper and ensure that your document does not have any mistakes in spelling, grammar, or format. Furthermore, students are strongly encouraged to meet with a writing consultant from the Learning Commons in order to review the materials that they produce in response to this assignment. All students must state whether or not they met with a writing consultant near the pledge line on their paper. As always, students should consider meeting with the instructor of the course to discuss both enhancement ideas for and drafts of their paper. Finally, students are required to turn in the original — marked and graded — version of the paper that they revised as part of this assignment.
